

Deer Hunting from a Recliner: A Collection of Essays Reflecting on Rural Life in Northeast Wisconsin. (Paperback)

By Kathy Campshure

Createspace, United States, 2011. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Living in northeast Wisconsin, inspiration abounds. It can be found in building a field-stone walk, dodging February potholes, or even in spotting a recliner that has been abandoned in the middle of a hayfield. This collection of essays originally appeared as weekly articles in the Oconto County Reporter (a small newspaper published in the author's hometown). The collection offers a unique point of view on the daily details that shape our lives. From gardening, to chores and family farms-from growing older, to raising children, and dealing with the changing times-the author shares her personal experiences on various topics, all while embracing life from a positive (albeit slightly unusual) point of view. Visit the county fair and ride the Tilt-a-Whirl with the author and her son; learn where all of the cabooses have gone, and discover what brown paper sacks and rainy days have in common; dare to consider life's ultimate question- Can pumpkin pies get car sick? From parenting, to doing dishes, to commuting to work-the enclosed stories will make you smile and inspire you as...
